The school term of 1967-68 has found the Sterling students maturing into young adults in a world of confusion, turmoil, and misunderstanding. Citizens of a nation boasting an affluence unparalleled by any other country in the world, Americans found themselves engaged in two wars: one against military aggression in Vietnam and the other against poverty in their own cities. This year was marked by riots in the streets of Newark, Washington and Detroit, and a growing concern over unchecked inflation. Young Americans became manifest in their discontent, as hippies and their hallucinagenic drugs became a small, though well publicized, aspect of America's diverse society. Civil service employees were recognized as a collective voice when policemen, firemen, teachers, and garbage men walked out on strike.

The year was not without its triumphs, however, and the glow of these accomplishments has not yet dimmed. The leaders of the world's two mightiest nations were brought together in peaceful contemplation at the Glassboro Summit Conference last June. The frail mystery of life was unveiled a bit further in Cape Town, South Africa, as the miracle of a human heart transplant was first performed. Man continued to reach for the stars and found them just beyond his fingertips when the Gemini project reached successful completion. International respect and cooperation achieved new heights in Grenoble, France, where nations joined in the friendly spirit of competition at the Winter Olympics.

Over all, today's world is becoming more dynamic, more tense; and is changing more rapidly than ever before. Instant worldwide communications focus our attention on the news as it happens. As a result, the depth and breadth of this generation's awareness is far greater than any before. The phenomenal explosion of knowledge in today's world promises a future of even greater advances, problems, and innovations. In recognition of this enlarging world and the incalculable importance of its every development, this year's ACCOLADE has chosen to present "impact 68."

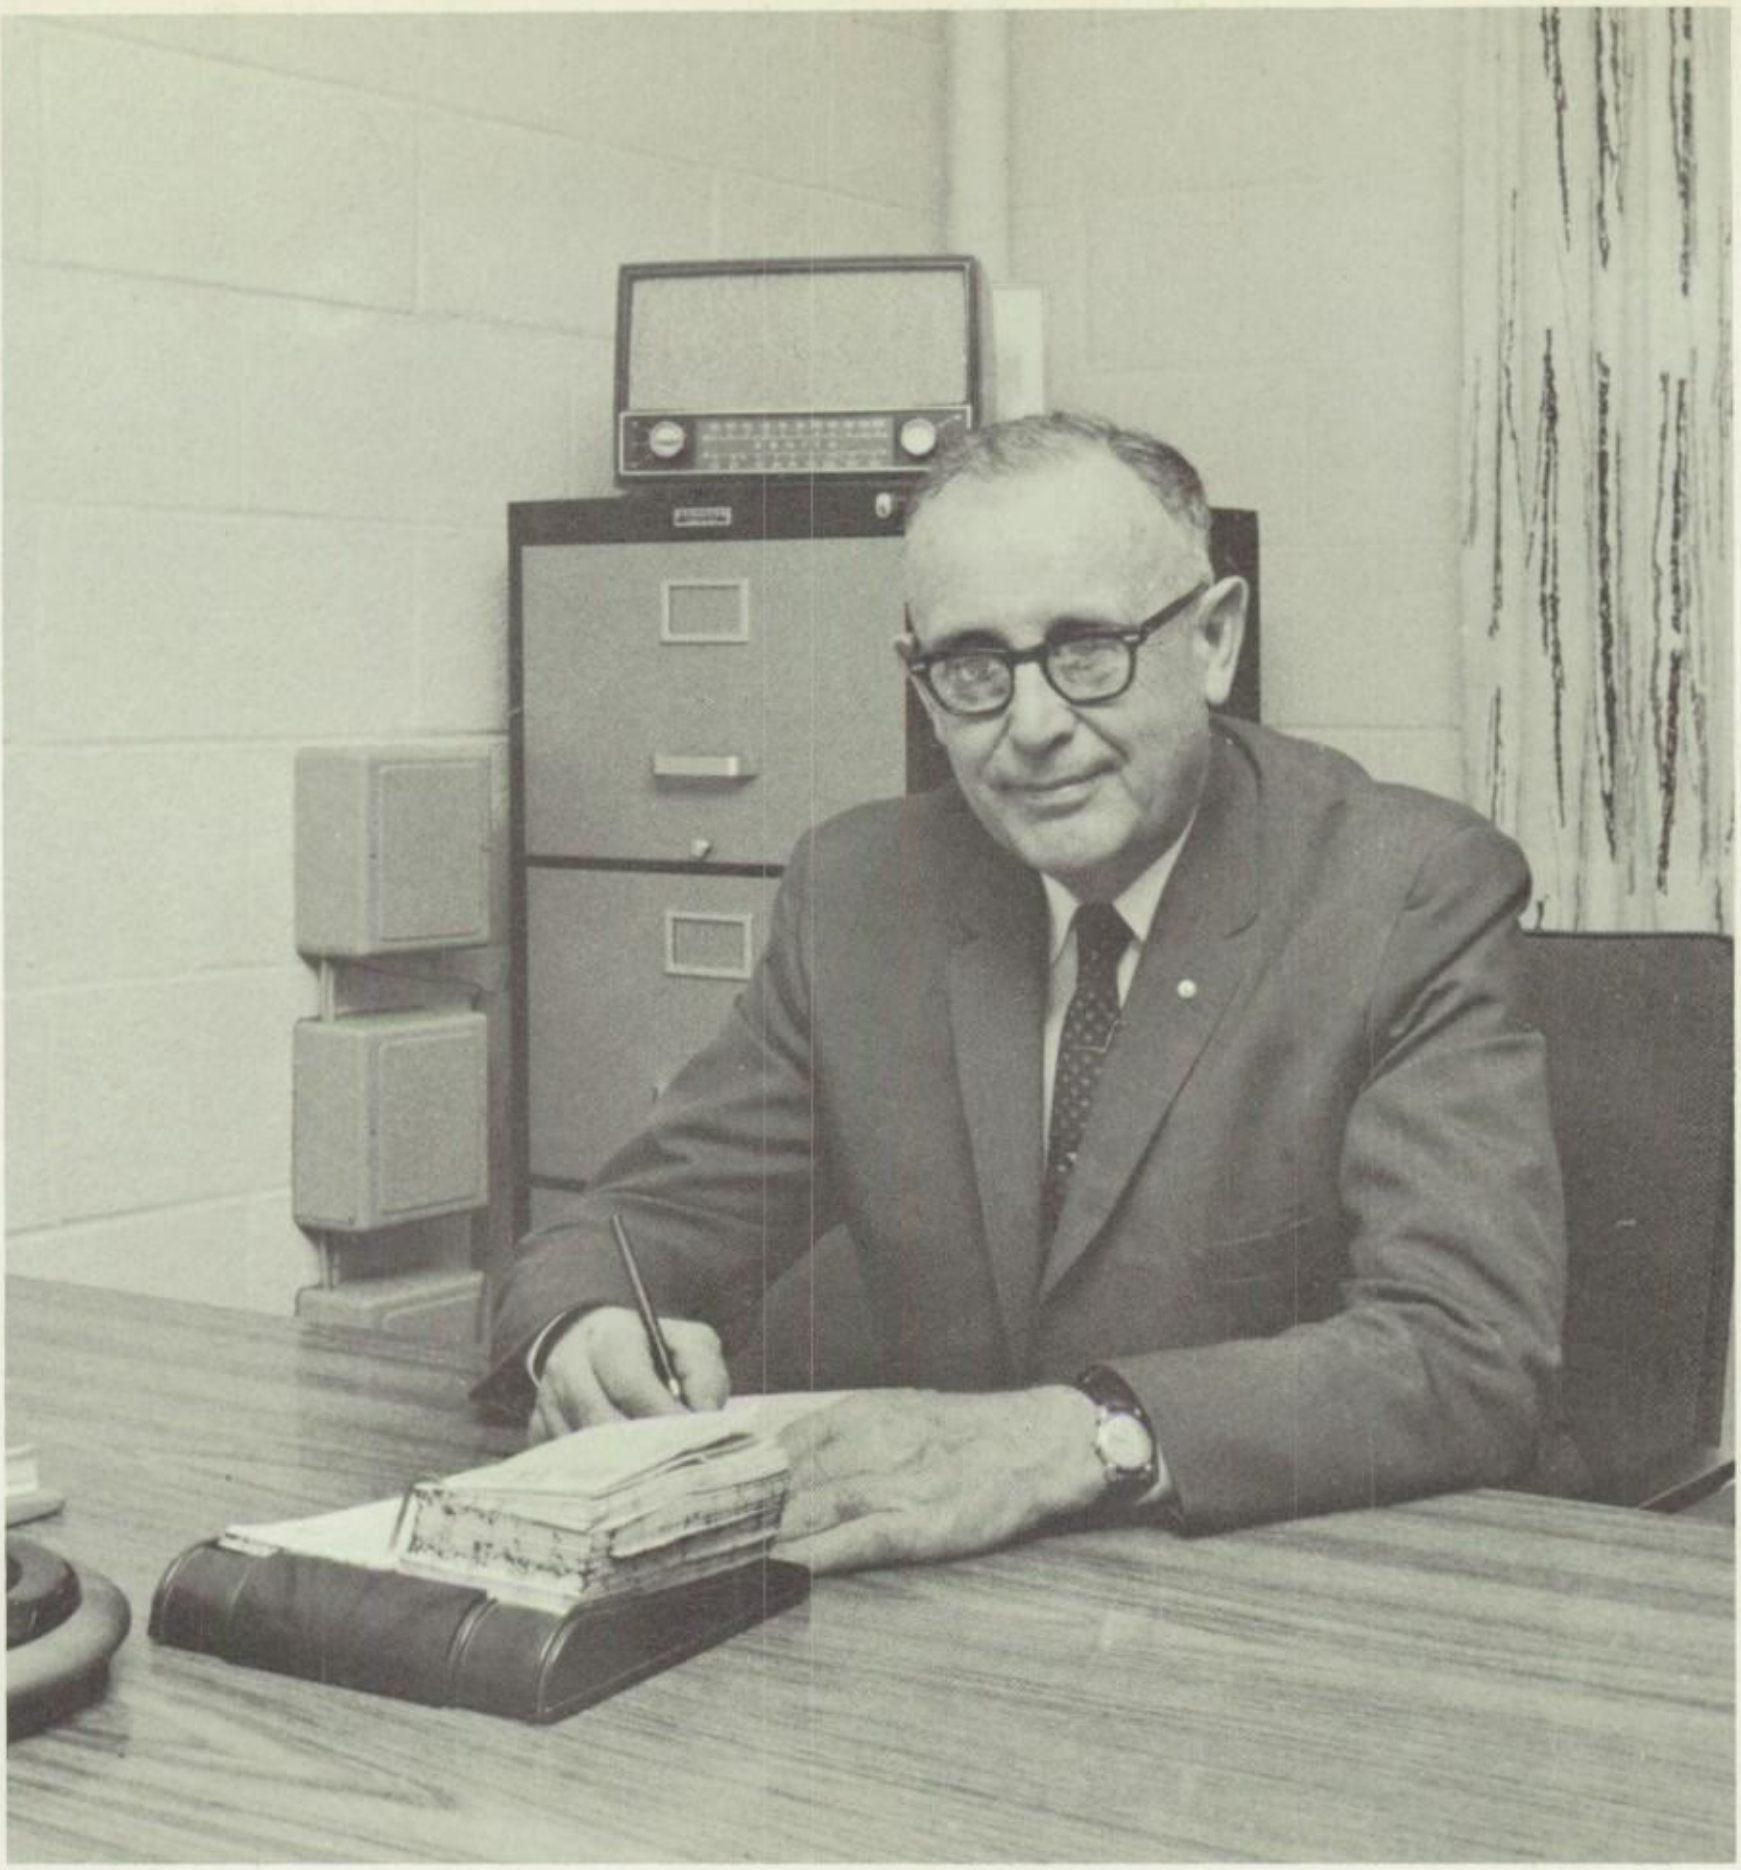
Secretary of the Board

The 1967-68 Board of Education cited upgrading the school curriculum as one of their foremost accomplishments. Working with the faculty, they were able to provide advantageous and interesting programs for non-college bound students. Among these programs are Cooperative Industrial Education, Distributive Education, Introduction to Vocations, and Cooperative Office Education. Another goal the Board has attained was devising a mutually satisfactory salary guide to help retain well-qualified teachers within the system.

Upon evaluation of existing facilities for specialized areas, the Board hopes to fulfill the essential needs of these programs, thus establishing more space for academic subjects.



S.H.S. welcomes Dr. Worrall's return.

Having pursued the field of education in South Jersey for many years, Dr. John R. Worrall can once again be seen in the halls of Sterling. Appointed as the new superintendent this year, he has returned to lead the matured high school he helped guide and shape through infancy.

Dr. Worrall graduated from Allegheny College and received his Master's and Doctor's degrees in Education at the University of Pittsburgh. He served as principal of Woodbury High School for eleven years and as Eastern Regional High School's superintendent for three.

Achieving the admiration and mutual respect of the student body and faculty alike, Dr. Worrall has worked diligently for continual improvement of the overall standards at Sterling High School.

Good Luck
George Funk

Completing his fifteenth year in the area of education, Mr. George L. Funk holds the position of principal at Sterling High School. Mr. Funk earned his Bachelor of Science degree at Temple and was later awarded his Master of Education degree at the same University. He has also taken extensive graduate work in the field of effective administration.

A familiar figure at Sterling, Mr. Funk had served as assistant principal for two years before receiving the appointment of principal in 1966. Quite familiar with the school's background and development, he has proven himself dedicated to the formation of a solid academic program at Sterling High School.

Administration dedicated to the formation of a solid academic program.

When Mr. Keith I. DeLuca came to Sterling High School earlier this year, he was well prepared to assume the responsibilities as assistant principal. A graduate of Geneva College, Mr. DeLuca taught biology for seven years at Neptune Senior High School. Quite athletic himself, he also coached high school football, tennis and basketball teams. In 1966 he furthered his qualifications by receiving his Master of Education degree at Rutgers University.

Working with the student body as Student Council advisor, Mr. DeLuca has captured the school's respect while becoming an integral part of the Sterling administration.

The ACCOLADE salutes our alumni in the armed forces.

It is with deep pride and appreciation that the 1968 ACCOLADE is dedicated to our alumni in the armed forces, most especially those serving in Viet Nam.

We have paused here to acknowledge a long standing debt to those servicemen who are stationed throughout the world in this precarious time of turmoil and conflict. As they fulfill their duty, be it on the battlefield, at their post, or on the sea, we extend them our sincerest gratitude and support. To these boys, perhaps an older brother, a neighbor, or a friend, we proudly dedicate this volume of the ACCOLADE.

SENIORS

It is projected that within the next two years over one half of America's population will be under twenty-five years of age. This makes the Class of '68 an important part of the rising, young generation. Challenged with the problems and potential of the future, today's Seniors will become tomorrow's leaders. It is with this knowledge that the Sterling graduates willingly accept their new responsibilities, preparing for them with higher education, careers, and military service.

Mark-
May you always be a good friend and never forget our good times at S.H.S.

Class of '68 confidently confronts the future.

What is a Senior? A Senior is a curious mixture of Camelot, Spaghetti Dinner, Christmas cards, the Continental Hotel, Santa's Workshop, and nostalgia. He walks proudly down the auditorium aisle while underclassmen rise in respect; he elects a king and queen for the Christmas Ball and Prom, and anxiously awaits the Washington trip. All the activities of the past four years pass in retrospect as he attends his last football and basketball game, cheers at his final pep rally.

A Senior is an experienced, mature product of four growing years at Sterling High School. He is older now, and wiser; confident and challenging, standing on the doorstep of the future. Now that the final strands of "Pomp and Circumstance" are echoing in the distance he is met with advanced education, a career, or perhaps military service. The last few weeks are bittersweet for a Senior as the final graduation preparations are made. Memories for a lifetime are cherished from these four distinct, totally individual years as our Sterling graduate suddenly realizes, "The big step has been taken, I'll never pass this way again."

Sterling's Jersey Girls' State Representative was Pat Dougherty. For five days she lived on the Douglass campus and participated in a miniature government. The week ended with a formal inaugural ball. Junior Miss Candidate for 1968 was Pat Kuehner. The contest was held at Haddon Township High School. As a portion of her exhibition she played a selection on the flute.

FACULTY

As was to be expected, the year 1968 found more students enjoying the benefits of education than ever before in the history of the nation. Although institutions of higher learning were expanding at an unprecedented rate, acceptance space continued to lag behind applicants.

The teachers' organizations gained strength when they began unifying to gain benefits and higher wages. Classroom instruction ceased as controversial walkouts were staged across the nation after negotiations failed. Despite the tensions engendered by these events, the Sterling faculty continued its efforts to provide a diversified, well-balanced curriculum to meet the needs and abilities of the students.

This year, under the direct supervision of Mr. Stubits, the Guidance Department has adopted a new program called Introduction to Vocations. This program attempts to give renewed sense of dignity and purpose to the student whose goals are vocationally oriented. It gives him an opportunity to appraise his interests and abilities in conjunction with the occupational world around him. The program is based on the assumption that the student will eventually select an occupation that is both rewarding and satisfying.

The basic framework of the program includes such items as team teaching, a comprehensive testing program, group guidance, exploratory work units, field trips, films, filmstrips, recordings, and a variety of vocational literature.

In addition to instituting Introduction to Vocations, the counselors guide students in choosing the colleges of their choice by questioning them about ambitions, interests, and accomplishments. Students not going to college are also aided in following the best direction toward their future goals.

This year the foreign language department has adopted an expanding program which includes a language laboratory located in the library. The laboratory gives the students an opportunity to improve their skills in French, Spanish, and German during their study halls.

Department head, Ralph Townsend, especially encouraged foreign travel this year. Department sponsored trips included travel to Europe during the Easter recess and a trip to Argentina during the summer vacation. Students participating in the French and Spanish curriculum in 1967-68 have taken advantage of several field trips to local colleges. Again this year Sterling hosted several foreign exchange students from Argentina.

Language contests held between the classes of all languages gave the students a sense of competition and also encouraged increased study.

A new plan which will be instituted next year is a standardized test produced by the Modern Language Association, designed to rate Sterling's language students with other students throughout the nation. From the results of this test, the teachers will be able to locate weaknesses in the curriculum and correct them.

Due to the developing field of computer programming, the department, directed by Mr. Marguglio acquired two IBM keypunch machines. Each year the department expands to keep its students aware of the latest machines and techniques. A new course, Accounting Office Machines, was added to the curriculum. It enables the students to use the adding and calculating machines with their practice sets. In this area an accounting major was added, which will eventually provide students for a work program.

The basic subjects, such as bookkeeping, typing, stenography, and office practice still continue.

Proving to be beneficial to the students, the Distributive Education program was continued. Working with retailing, wholesaling, and service establishments, the program allowed the students to acquire an insight into these businesses.

For those students interested in future employment in an office, enrollment in the Cooperative Office Education program was available. While working in various offices, they were trained in the clerical and secretarial fields. This program was, also, designed for the students to acquire an awareness of the demands of the modern office.

Sterling offers a strong science background.

Freshmen are offered General Science as an introductory class preparing them for the advanced lab courses of the next three years. General and B.S.C.S. Biology classes are offered in the Sophomore year for students concerned with life and its functions. Dissections, microscopes, and a greenhouse help to acquaint students with the vital processes of plant and animal life.

With emphasis on labs and experimentations, the Sterling Chemistry students explore the combinations and properties of elements. Safety goggles are worn for precaution while studying the unique behavior of the elements.

Both traditional and P.S.S.C. Physics courses are offered in the twelfth grade. Through the guidance of the department chairman, Mr. Taylor, students are acquainted with the laws of nature present in everyday life. Lab oriented, P.S.S.C. students experience a varied, interesting class with ripple tanks, "slinkies," candles, and mirrors.

Earth and Physical Science courses are also offered, which add to the general understanding of the universe and, in turn, man himself.

Sterling's Math Department provides some of the most extensive offerings in the school. Under the guidance of Mrs. Heald, the curriculum is flexibly designed to prepare all students, whatever their future plans may be.

Academic students are offered four years of mathematics with collegiate preparation as the prime guideline. Freshmen receive Algebra I and upon successful completion, they continue their study in Algebra II during the Sophomore year. Plane Geometry is offered in the Junior year for students who have completed their Algebraic background. This course introduces the students to the more abstract ideas of math, as evidenced by the many theorems and proofs that are mastered. Qualified Seniors seeking a challenge can elect Math 12. This class includes the study of trigonometry and an introduction to college math with the text Principles of Mathematics. A Math Seminar is offered to select Seniors desiring an introduction to higher math. The concepts of sequences, limit theory, and functions are briefly explored during the first half-year. When this material is mastered the students are taught the fundamentals of calculus.

Business, secretarial, and general students are also offered math courses related to their respective fields. These classes include Math 9, Math 10, Business Math, and General Math I and II. Industrial Math is available for boys taking the pre-industrial sequence.

Sterling's Social Studies department, headed by Miss Werkheiser, has attempted to emphasize the relationships between Geography, Modern World History, and U.S. History I and II.

Geography, a study of the non-Western world through a cultural approach, is offered to all Freshmen. Modern World History studies man's development from early civilization through his growth and expansion in Renaissance Europe. U.S. History I concentrates on the formation and ideals of our nation and government from Pre-Revolutionary days until the Post Civil War Period. U.S. History II focuses on twentieth century America; both courses are required of all upperclassmen.

Miss Werkheiser has continued her new teaching techniques, where the students gradually realize that history is not just facts; nor is there any definite solution to any issue in world affairs.

A growing library meets growing needs.

Students who have need of many varied forms of reading material will find the school library invaluable. The library staff efficiently assists any student who seeks their aid, supplying him with novels, literary supplements, periodicals and all types of reference materials. Also available for use are records, filmstrips, and historical and geographical pamphlets. All magazines, books, and supplementary materials are categorized by the card catalog. The use of Sterling's library is available to any resident of the Sterling area, on Monday and Thursday evenings. The members of the library council sponsored a very successful paperback book drive once again this year.

Home Ec. prepares tomorrow's homemakers.

The Home Economics department has completed an eventful year in preparing young women for a profitable and contented life as a homemaker. The curriculum is designed to afford the opportunity for young girls to study the new trends in fashion and to learn the procedures of properly preparing and serving food.

The courses are invaluable in teaching methods not only of cooking and sewing; but also prepares the student as a future homemaker by emphasizing thriftiness of purchasing, responsibility in child care, and budgeting of money, time, and energy. Those girls who take advantage of this popular course finish with a feeling of pride in their accomplishments.

Mr. Maxwell keeps the group in harmony by individual and group guidance. Mr. Pennington, our choral director, along with Mr. Maxwell, keeps the sections of the Music Department lively and interesting, showing the students that singing and instrumental music are pleasurable and rewarding.

A Remedial Reading course was offered this year for the first time to those students who had difficulty in reaching their potential reading level. The course stressed spelling, vocabulary, comprehension, and speed. The test used to evaluate the advancement of the student recorded as great as a three year improvement in a period of four months. Because of the conscientious cooperation of both the students and the instructor, Mrs. Houston, the course proved to be beneficial.

Remedial Reading and Health Services available to students.

The nurse's office is continuously occupied by students suffering from various maladies or calamities. In addition to caring for 1,200 students, Mrs. Phillips, the school nurse, files yearly records of each student's health, weight, height, and sight. With the cooperation of the school doctor, a physical examination, T.B. Test and Chest X-rays are given to each student annually.

Coordination and skill achieved in gym.

Physical education has taken on a new meaning this year as the head of the department, Mrs. McGeoy, strived to provide the students with an interesting and challenging curriculum. The major aim is for the students to develop coordination and skill. The various activities that the students participated in included hockey, volleyball, basketball and square dancing.

Health courses are mandatory in the Freshman, Sophomore, and Senior year. While the Freshmen learned First Aid skills, the Sophomores studied the causes, symptoms and treatments of infectious diseases. The Senior health course is divided into two studies; the first is concerned with Civil Defense, while the second involves discussions about mental illness. In place of health, a Driver Education course is required of the Juniors. Driver Education at Sterling High School makes available to each student all the aspects of safe, intelligent, and skillful driving. The students are exposed to the various phases of driving, through a thorough classroom and behind-the-wheel program. This provides the beginning driver with a sound basis for a lifetime of safe, responsible, and efficient motor vehicle operation.

Industrial and Fine Arts become career oriented.

The Art Department, under the supervision of Mrs. Morgan, is one of the most interesting and well-received subjects at Sterling High School.

The Art Major program, which has now completed its second year, has proven to be quite beneficial. This accomplishment is a direct result of the concern shown by many students with furthering their art education. Students are given the opportunity to develop their skills in the Art Club and Art I courses. Art can be selected as a minor elective for the student who is not seriously concerned in furthering his career.

The aim of the Industrial Arts program, under the supervision of the Related Arts Department Chairman, Mr. Lynch, is to give each student experience and exposure in the trades of wood and metal work. Another goal is to encourage students to direct their vocations towards one of these trades.

Offered for the first time this year, Cooperative Industrial Education provides on-the-job preparatory training in approved trade and industrial occupations. Regular employment is again an essential element of the course and successful performance is applicable to scholastic credit requirements.

UNDERCLASSMEN

The year 1968 brought sociologists to the grave realization that the United States' population would completely double by the year 2000. Likewise, Sterling High School experienced an increase in enrollment with the advent of each school year. The school's overpopulation was again evidenced this year by split assembly programs and an overcrowded gym during basketball season. Classroom space became scarce as study halls were held in the auditorium and cafeteria. The Freshmen were a good example of this growing situation as the Class of '71 became the largest entering class in the history of the school.

Class of '69 retains enthusiasm.

What is a junior? A junior is a Sterlingite endowed with great spirit to achieve, academically and athletically, the best. He's the proud representative of the "silver and blue." Whether hustling football programs, selling candy, sponsoring dances, or selling mums, he is outstanding. A junior's status as an upperclassman is fulfilled the day the class rings arrive. He accepts the challenge of new experiences. College boards are taken for the first time, college catalogs are sent away for, all preparing him for the future. He attains a B+ average and becomes a member of the National Honor Society, or ventures into student government, or exhibits his ability and sportsmanship by participating in school athletics. A junior is one who saves a prom charm and long treasures the memories of the Junior-Senior Prom in May. And finally, a junior is one with spirit, ambition, and hope, not just for next year, but always. A junior is every member of the class of '69 who says, "We are from Sterling and no one is prouder."

Class of '70 strives for excellence.

What is a sophomore? A sophomore is a member of the class of '70, a little wiser and more secure in his position at Sterling. His added finesse makes him capable of attaining the title "sophisticated sophomore."

What class sponsored successful dances, and held a profitable stationery sale among other various activities? Why, the sophomore class, of course. A sophomore is a student who begins to formulate ideals, sets the pace in music and academics, and scores as sportsman or spectator. He is filled with anticipation as the last two years of SHS draw near. He recognizes the responsibilities of upperclassmen and strives to make his last two years at Sterling profitable and rewarding, socially and scholastically.

Class of '71 enters high school life.

What is a freshman? A freshman is the "itty bitty" one who meekly, softly, and wide eyed gazes at the wonders of Sterling High. At first a freshman appears confused, lost, and bewildered. At second glance he is still frightened, but fascinated at the overwhelming amount of activities surrounding him. He adjusts readily, and accepts the new responsibilities of high school life. His salesmanship is exemplified by Booster Badges and light bulb sales. For a freshman there is so much to learn, so much to remember! Freshmen can be found everywhere: football games, basketball games, pep rallies, and dances. The freshman class of '71 is out to show all that it is a vital part of Sterling. New friendships form, memories deepen, all to be enriched by four years of learning till the chords of "Pomp and Circumstance" sound.

SPORTS

This school term marked an especially exciting aura of sports. The Red Sox captured the American League pennant on the last day of the season, but lost the World Series' crown to the Cardinals in the seventh game. "Pro" football saw its first four-divisional season as the Green Bay Packers again clinched the championship. The 76'ers continued to triumph in the NBA while college stars like O. J. Simpson and Calvin Murphy thrilled the nation throughout the year. From February 6-18 the world paused to focus on the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France.

The Knights of Sterling reflected the victory and excitement of the year, boasting their finest football record since entrance in the Colonial Conference. The basketball team offered all the excitement and enthusiasm that's traditional with the season as they continually ranked among South Jersey's top ten.

JAMES COMBS
Head Coach

Under the expert guidance of head coach James Combs and his staff, Sterling's "Silver Knights" rolled up a 5-4 record for a winning season. The league record of 3-4 was identical to last season's log.

The team kicked off the season with a 33-0 romp over Pemberton with both the offensive and defensive units playing very well. This performance by the offensive unit proved to be the highest for the season, and the average per game was more than 15 points. The defense remained tough all season, giving up an average of less than 11 points per game and containing the opposition to one touchdown or less on six occasions. The two high points of the season were the victories over Audubon and Overbrook. The Knights defeated Audubon, Colonial Conference champions this season, by a 24-13 score. Overbrook, our traditional Thanksgiving Day rival, fell by a 13-7 score in an exciting and muddy game.

Although the fine performances of the eleven seniors will be missed next year, the "Silver Knights" look forward to continued success next season.

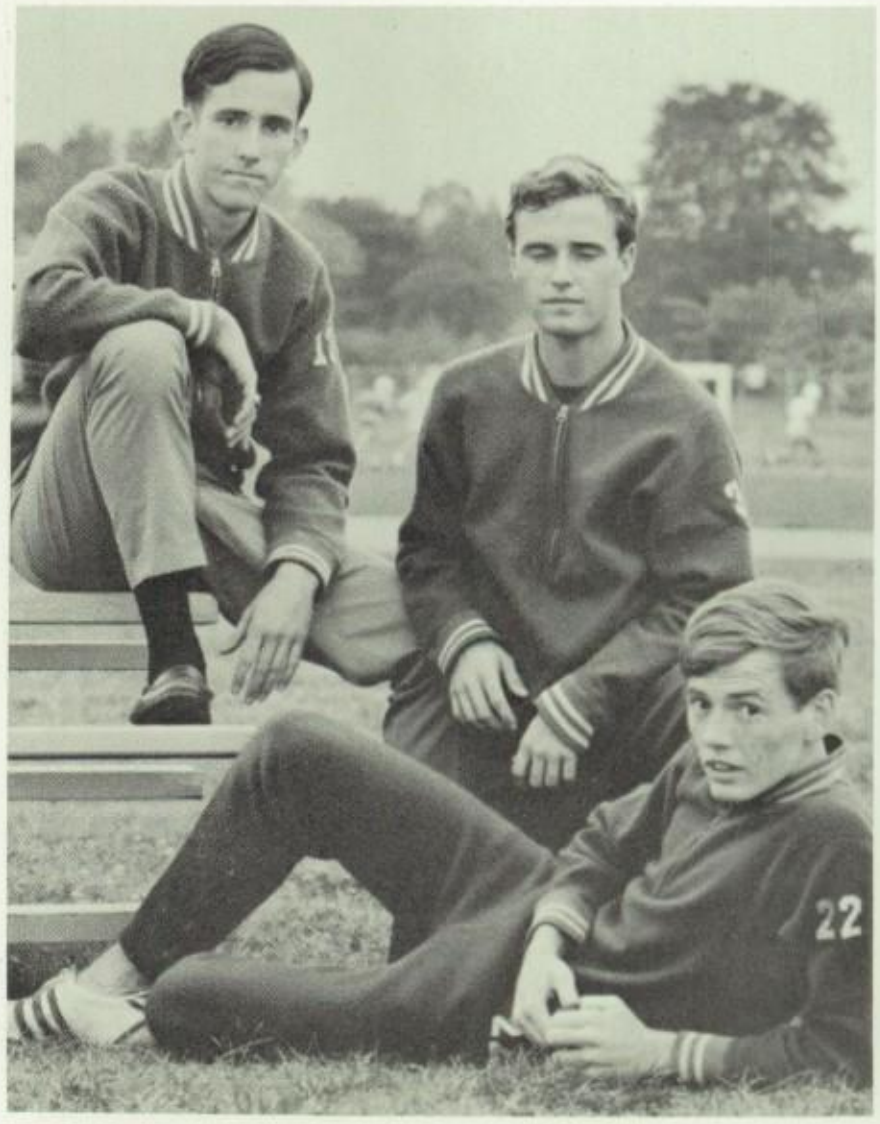
Harriers Sprint To Victory



TRI-CAPTAINS: Carl Arentzen, Ray Martin, John Cassady.

The Cross-Country team this year ended the season with a 6-3 log. Considering the loss of five of the seven varsity members of last year, the team did an outstanding job. The captains of this year's squad were Carl Arentzen, John Cassady and Ray Martin. Rounding out the varsity team were Jack Dobbins, an outstanding freshman who established a new freshman record, 12:41, for our home course, Dan Charlton, Jeff Rockwell, Bob Francis, and Rich Lewis. The junior varsity squad had a 3-3 record for the season.

Co-Captains Bob Long and Tom Gallagher have different views on this play.

Sterling's fledgling soccer team, in its first year of varsity competition, began with lots of determination and a new coach, Mr. John Nanorta. Through speed, skill, and the teamwork of its members, the 1967 soccer team was able to complete its season with a respectable record of two victories, four defeats, and an unusual total of six ties.

Many outstanding players made up this year's team. Senior Co-Captain Bob Long, who was elected to the All-South Jersey Soccer Team, organized and steadied Stering's strong defense. He received support from Junior Goalie Bob Jones, whose outstanding play also earned him an honorable mention to the All-South Jersey Soccer Team. Sterling's offense was led by Co-Captain Tom Gallagher, the team's high scorer.

This year's hockey teams were full of determination, skill, and school spirit. Through the leadership and efforts of Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Lippencott, and Miss Coles the girls completed their finest year with a seasonal record of 5-2-3.

They started their season with a 9-1 victory over Lenape, a very difficult team to beat. Led by Pat Conrad and Sandy Tomkinson, the girls averaged three points per game. The team will be losing several seniors, but the underclassmen coming up should make an even better team next year.

In the Sterling tradition, the Silver Knights enjoyed another exciting basketball season, boasting a final record of 20-5. Continually ranked among the elite in South Jersey's top ten basketball poll, the Knights only succumbed to championship teams Collingswood and Burlington.

Mr. Jack Collins occupied the position of head coach this year and guided the team to runner-up positions in both the Colonial Conference and the South Jersey Invitational Christmas Tourney. During the regular season the team averaged 72 points per game while holding the opposition to a mere 56 points per game. In the post-season NJSIAA tournament the Knights defeated Haddon Heights in the first game but were later eliminated by Collingswood.

Tri-Captains John Miller, Spencer Person, and Greg Crouse sparked the team as each scored over 300 points during the season. The squad was rounded out with Seniors Bob Long and John Holmes, each receiving honorable mention in the Colonial Conference. Junior Brion Madden served as an outstanding sixth man. Both defensive ace Spencer Person and high scorer John Miller were awarded All-Conference honors, while Greg Crouse was selected to the Colonial Conference second team.

Though the nucleus of the team was sacrificed to graduation, there will be five returning lettermen next season. This year's Junior Varsity and Freshman teams also posted victorious seasons as the JV's, mentored by Mr. Croud, finished with a 12-8 log. Freshman coach, Mr. Kaplan, posted a 10-6 record.

Knights continue as South Jersey court power.

Individual efforts distinguish wrestling team.

Enthusiasm and spirit were evidenced by Sterling's wrestling team despite their misleading record of 1-12. There were several fine individual performances by members of the team. Jim Mohan, a senior, placed third at the Districts in the 148 lb. class. Jim Tavener placed second at the Colonial Conference Sophomore Tournament in the 141 lb. class. George Ullyot placed first at the Colonial Conference Frosh Tournament in the 148 lb. class. The best individual record on the team was by Rick Tankle. He competed in the 98 lb. class and had a 6-5-1 record. Coach Marguglio feels that the team has much fine talent and is looking forward to next season optimistically.

The varsity and junior varsity teams, coached by Miss Coles, showed improvement over last year. The varsity team had a record of 1-11, but that is not indicative of the team's spirited effort. Led by their captain, Kathy Dixon, the girls played hard in each of the games and displayed sportsmanship, determination, and team spirit. Two of the girls, Sue McCosker and Pat Conard, were selected to the All-Star Colonial Conference team. The junior varsity team also played well and ended with a record of 6-6. The Freshman team, coached by Miss McDonald, had a very impressive 4-2 season. Noting the progress displayed by the junior varsity and freshman teams this year, the coaches are optimistic about next year.

Completing its finest year in the very tough Colonial Conference, Sterling has proven itself a hard team to beat. With only three returning lettermen this year, inexperience has played a major part in the Knight's battle for the Conference championship. With Senior Connie Herrmann and Junior Bobby Francis picking up the mound duties, plus the great hitting of Sophomore Don Miller, and the fine defensive glove of Senior Bob Long, Sterling remained a fierce competitor throughout the '68 season.

One of the main reasons for the team's success this year was the return of Mr. Ralph Townsend to the position of head coach. Aided by assistant coaches Mr. George Manlove and Mr. Tom Hampton, the Junior Varsity and freshmen, respectively, have shown great promise for the coming years. The J.V.'s jumped off to a winning start by burying arch-rival Edgewood, 29-5, in only three innings. The outstanding individual talent on both teams will become one of the key factors of success for Sterling in the forthcoming seasons. As this season closed, the team was involved in a tight race for first place.

Track team sprints to victory.

The 1968 track team was again under the direction of Mr. Dale Wiltsee, who looked forward to a winning record as the season began. The boys continued to improve in all events as the season progressed; and on April 20 at the Bridgeton Relays, the team captured third place in the two-mile relay. Running for the Knights were Seniors Carl Arentzen, John Cassady, and Ray Martin, along with Junior Bill Goins. The shuttle-hurdle relay team placed fourth at that meet. Coach Wiltsee anticipated continued success in the Penn Relays and the South Jersey Relays. The team also participated in the Camden County Meet, the Colonial Conference Meet, and the Group III Meet in May.

Softball team boasts successful season.

This year the varsity team was coached by Miss Jeanne Koch, and the junior varsity was guided by Miss Beth MacDonald. The varsity began the season with two victories over strong competition. In the opening game the girls outlasted Woodbury 7-6; and in the second game against Haddon Township, they smashed out a 16-7 win. The team was determined to continue their fine play, and completed the season with the best softball season on record.

This year, under the direction of their new coach, Mr. Jack Collins, the golf team played in its second year of competition. With a winning record as their goal, the team depended heavily on its three seniors: Tom Worrell, Earl Cousins, and Charles Barton. These three were complemented by some equally talented underclassmen who will form the nucleus of next year's team.

ACTIVITIES

The highlight of the national social calendar this year was the first White House wedding in 67 years as the President's daughter, Lynda Bird, married Marine Captain Charles S. Robb. In comparison, the most exciting social event at Sterling was the annual Junior-Senior prom. Held at the Rickshaw Inn, it originated a school precedent by being the first prom held off the school premises.

The Lincoln Cultural Center continued to expand in New York, notably with the opening of the new Metropolitan Opera House last spring. Sterling maintained its own level of excellence in the concerts and drama presented during the year. Other new additions to the Sterling stage were the student-faculty Talent Show and the Spring Musical.

1967 Homecoming Activities Climax Football Season.

On Saturday, November 7, the last home game of the 1967 football season was played, and traditionally it marked the day when the new Homecoming Queen was crowned.

The week before, Senior boys had each nominated three girls. The five girls receiving the highest votes were: Nancy Campbell, Naomi Horton, Diane Juchno, Kathy McAlister and Marie Wynder. The following Friday at the pep rally, Tony Mancini presented the finalists to the student body. A few days before Homecoming all students voted for the girl of their choice.

By halftime, on the beautiful Saturday afternoon, tension was at a high pitch as the nominees were driven past the stands. Assembled on a platform on the field, the girls each opened their own bouquet of roses; and Marie Wynder, the new queen, found red roses beneath the wrapping. Marie was warmly received by the crowds as last year's queen, Mary Ann Feuda, placed the crown upon her head.

Two days after Thanksgiving, on November 25, the Student Council sponsored their fourth annual Homecoming Dance.

Presiding over the festivities was the new Homecoming Queen, Marie Wynder, and her court, Nancy Campbell, Naomi Horton, Diane Juchno, and Kathy McAlister.

Entertainment was provided by the Pawns, making a memorable and colorful occasion for all who attended.

The chants were intense and the response was enthusiastic as the renowned soul of S.H.S. blared forth at pep rallies every Friday afternoon during football season. Spirit and Sterling High School have long been synonymous and this year's pep rallies, under the supervision of Social Vice-President Tony Mancini, and with the aid of the cheerleaders and pep club, have succeeded in giving everyone the pep needed to win games.

Another aspect of Sterling life in which student participation is important are assemblies. Always welcome, they present diversified and imaginative subjects. Along with the seasonal award presentations in the gym for fall, winter, and spring sports, scientific exhibits were held to bring the student body interesting information on current developments in different fields. All students attended induction ceremonies for their individual class officers and the officers of the Student Council.

In all, the assemblies and pep rallies, indicative of Sterling courtesy and school pride, offered relaxation and enjoyment to the student body.

Seniors auctioned off.

A welcome respite from school's daily routine, Servant Day produced an abundance of hilarity. Senior students auctioned off their services for one day to friends, teachers, admirers, and even enemies, all for the benefit of the National Honor Society. The three days before Servant Day were provided for students to bid for the person whose services they wanted to rent. Then, on the morning of February 15, the highest bidders reported with chains, possessive tags and labels, and crazy costumes to claim and then decorate their slaves. Throughout the day slaves could be found obeying orders and carrying books, opening doors, reciting speeches and singing songs. Although at the end of the day, there were some welcome sighs heard, the predominant feeling was that the project had been a venture worth taking or investing in!

Santa's Workshop.

On December 16, the Senior Class of 1968 presented "Santa's Workshop." The magical toyshop, enhanced with gifts and lit by twinkling lights and candles, enchanted all who entered. The atmosphere was romantic as the couples danced gaily in the Christmas spirit until eleven o'clock. Stockings hung by the decorative fireplace, a festively trimmed tree, and a huge red sleigh set the mood for the crowning of the King and Queen. As the tension mounted, silence penetrated the room while the Senior Class President, Gabe Coll, announced the nominees and they gathered around the tree. The three nominees for Queen were: Kathy McAlister, Pat Mackin, and Ann Galezniak. The King was to be chosen from Paul Anders, Bob Long, and Paul Flesher. With all the splendor of a royal coronation, Bob Long and Kathy McAlister were crowned King and Queen. The memories created on that pleasurable evening continued to radiate happiness long into the New Year.

The Freshman Chorus gain the experience of performing for an audience, and vocal potential is developed.

Concerts entertain.

On the evening of January 27, 1968, Sterling High was honored to be the host school presenting to a capacity audience, the annual All-South Jersey High School Symphony Orchestra and Chorus Concert. The 220 fine musicians featured in the orchestra and chorus that evening were the best music students from nearly forty different schools in the surrounding South Jersey area.

The diligent work of Sterling's chorale proved successful when, after much time and practice under the direction of Mrs. Joan Pennington, the 75 chorale members presented George Bizet's famous and exciting opera, "Carmen." Our Instrumental Music Department performed Sterling's own James W. Maxwell's original musical comedy entitled, "Al Legretto," in April to highlight our musical program for 1968.

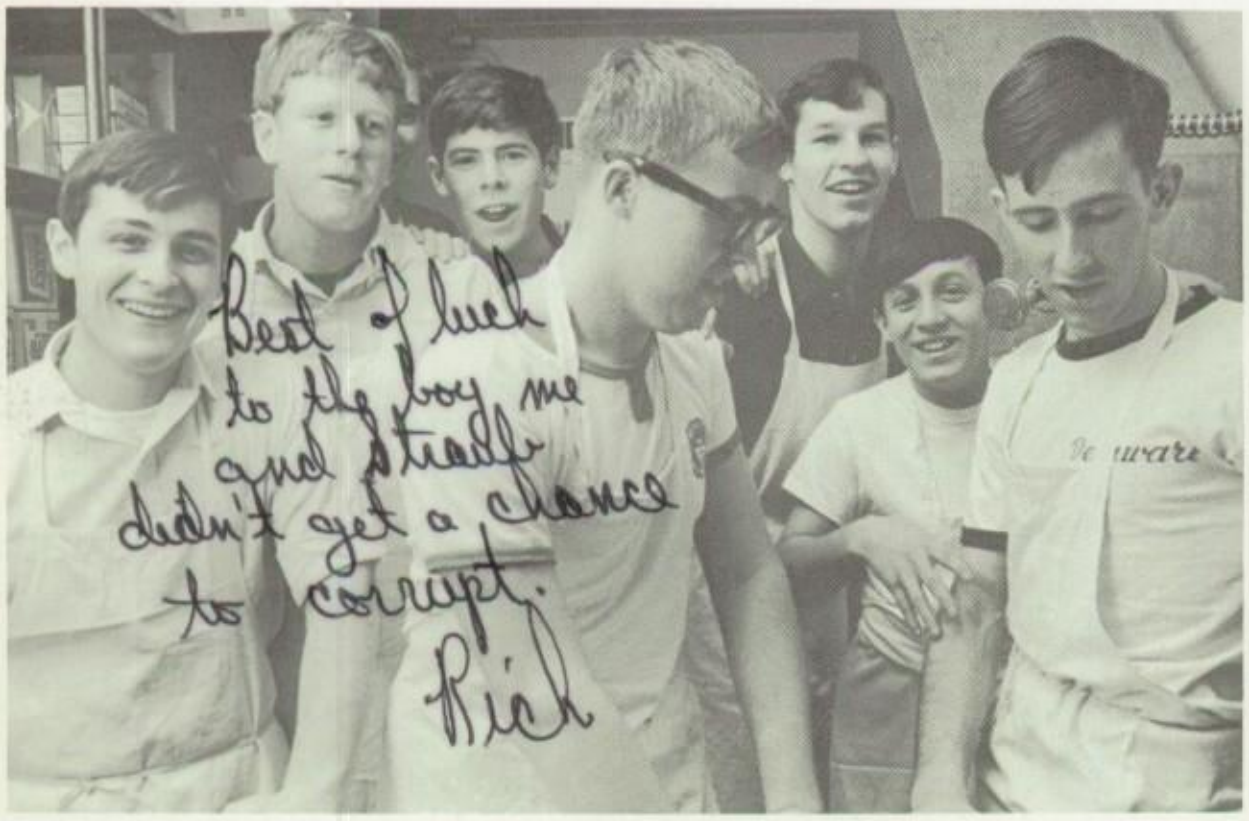
Spaghetti Dinner proves an enjoyable affair.

This year the Seniors held their Spaghetti Dinner on Saturday, February 17, in Sterling's cafeteria. They made delicious meals from sauce, spaghetti, lettuce, rolls, and ice cream. Tony Mancini was Master of Ceremonies, hosting the entertainment supplied by the Seniors themselves. Donna Brudzinski, accompanying herself on the guitar, sang a number of spirituals and folk songs. There was also a German band ensemble which added the sound of the Alps to the enjoyment of the customers. The atmosphere was set by the red and white checkered tablecloths and candles set in old wine bottles. The Senior girls did the serving, supported by background workers in the kitchen. Tickets were sold ahead of time for $1.50, quite worth the small fee for a pleasant evening of dinner and entertainment.



"Is this any way to run a Spaghetti Dinner!?"

Gabe Coll, Bill Lees, Dave Llewellyn and Doug Hartman serenade Pat Mackin as they harmonize to "Ain't She Sweet!"

Al Pratico and Dorothy Murrea enjoy the situation as Steve Marshall seems perplexed by Nancy Connor's statement, "I thought you asked me to go out for some 'exquisite Italian cuisine'?"

The Senior girls had as much fun preparing and serving the meal as everyone else did eating it.

"These dances remind me of a Gaucho uprising," observes Laura Carabelli to Roberto Joison and Daniel Zamit.

Sterling welcomes Argentine visitors.

This year Sterling, repeating a most successful exchange that occurred last year, extended gracious hospitality to a group of Argentine students for two months. On January 13, a semi-formal reception was held in the library for the students with the purpose of familiarizing them with American customs. Following this was the Bienvenidos Amigos dance, sponsored by the Accolade, in honor of the visitors' arrival.

For the Argentine students, Laura Carabelli, Gabriela Horischnik, Roberto Joison, Nora Selener, Susana Vaizman and Daniel Zamit, and their American brothers and sisters, this exchange proved not only to be an opportunity of learning and understanding between the two countries, but a heart-warming experience of cherished friendships that will long be remembered.

Dances a popular part of social life.

A popular part of this year's social life was the variety of dances held on weekend nights. The Seniors welcomed the Freshmen at the first dance of the year, "71 Kickoff." Other dances throughout the year included the Sophomore's "Halloween Happening," the Junior's "Basket Ball," and the Freshman's "Island of Flowers," which included a flower-laden canoe and hula dancers. The "Bienvenidos Amigos" dance, sponsored by the ACCOLADE, welcomed the Argentine students to Sterling.

A change of pace was offered by the National Honor Society as they sponsored the Sadie Hawkins dance, when the girls asked the boys for dates. Students were able to dress in hillbilly costumes and wear pigtails to this informal gathering. Not to be outdone, the Student Council offered a victory dance entitled, "S-3C."

Entertainment at the dances was provided by many local groups and by popular records. Refreshments and decorations were important parts of the dances, because they reflected the gay attitude felt by everyone who attended.

"This Old Heart of Mine."

Senior Class presents "Romanoff and Juliet."

Miss Martin and Mrs. Kochanek deserve much of the credit for making "Romanoff and Juliet" the success that it was.

The class of 1968 presented the annual Senior Class Play on March 8 and 9. The play selected was the entertaining satire, "Romanoff and Juliet," by Peter Ustinov; it was under the direction of Mrs. Kochanek and Miss Martin.

The plot revolves around the romance of a young American girl and a Russian sailor, and takes place in a minute, imaginary country in Europe. This love seems doomed from the beginning, because their fathers are ambassadors of their respective nations. Chaos sets in when the fiances of the lovers arrive. However, the general, with the aid of his two soldiers, brings the handsome pair together despite their different backgrounds and the disapproval of their families. It was an amusing performance and like all tales of fantasy, they lived happily ever after.

"I know what I like about you, Igor."

"Are there people out there?"

Students and faculty present "Hippie Happening."

Lawrence Welk broadcasting live from the Sterling High School auditorium! Mr. Croud fussing with his shoulder length locks! Mr. Marguglio dancing to "Simple Simon Says!" The occasion? Not a Ripley's Believe It or Not Show, but Sterling's student-faculty talent program, the "Hippie Happening," sponsored by the Student Council.

For two evenings, March 14 and 15, students and faculty alike danced, sang, joked, and gave a delightfully entertaining glimpse into their hidden talents, for the benefit of the scholarship fund and the ACCOLADE. The auditorium was transformed into a psychedelic discoteque complete with posters, flashing multi-colored lights, and go-go girls. The acts, interspersed with hilarious comedy skits, ranged from lovely ballads to lively current tunes, from modern dance to ballet, and gave a well rounded picture of the variety of talent that can be found at Sterling.

ORGANIZATIONS

The year 1968 marked another volatile year on the international scene. With uneasy peace in the Middle East, unchecked chaos within the Chinese border, and frustrating fighting in South Vietnam, the world's most notable organization, the United Nations, trod softly. Carefully evaluating the world's quickly changing situations, each decision of action or inaction was geared for the ultimate achievement of world peace and harmony. In its efforts to inculcate democratic ideals and values, Sterling High School's Student Council also sponsored numerous activities reflecting an awareness of the world's problems. Christmas packages were sent to servicemen in Vietnam, while an alumni "Vietnam Honor Roll" was posted in the school trophy case. In conjunction with the National Honor Society, a clothing drive was held for the impoverished in Appalachia.

The society pages of newspapers are filled with articles reporting the activities of various organizations. To provide an opportunity to develop skills and hobbies for one's own enjoyment and enrichment, Sterling continued to offer a wide variety of clubs. Many clubs emphasized the recreational use of leisure time, such as the darts, ping-pong, bridge, and pinochle clubs.

Numerous improvements distinguish '67-'68 Student Council.

The primary objective of the Student Council is to develop good citizenship attitudes and practices, to promote a closer student-faculty relationship, to stimulate and maintain a good school spirit, and to provide a forum for student expression.

This year the Student Council sponsored the annual Homecoming Dance in the fall and the Farewell Dance in the Spring. The school store was in operation during the year for the convenience of all students.

The Christmas packages, which were sent to American soldiers in Viet Nam, were among the many notable projects which the Student Council carried out this year. They also conducted a clothing drive in conjunction with the National Honor Society for the benefit of the poor people in Appalachia. Through the efforts of the Student Council, various improvements were made in the cafeteria service this year.

"Hippie Happening," a talent show which was strictly a student-teacher affair, was presented by the Student Council, which was working to raise money for color in the '68 ACCOLADE, and by the Sterling Education Association.

Members of the Student Council strongly hope that they have fulfilled their responsibilities to the student body at Sterling High School and that their efforts this year have helped to improve our school.

From the first days of September until the finished copy of the ACCOLADE arrives, the yearbook editors and staff are kept busy. They work together as a team in planning the book, laying out the pages, writing the copy, cropping the pictures, typing the captions, correcting the gallies, and giving up to start over again. Beginning with confusion and ending in chaos, the dedicated ACCOLADERs progress from Senior pictures to winter activities, and finally to spring sports. All phases of school life are captured and preserved for future enjoyment within the yearbook pages.

This year's editors were especially well qualified having been staff members in their Junior year. They also attended interesting, informative yearbook seminars last spring with the advisor, Miss Wrigley. The Junior and Senior staff members proved invaluable assistants in typing, writing copy, tagging pictures, gathering information, and just helping out.

Subscription drives were held, a theme agreed upon, deadlines feverishly met, and the book dedicated as the editors watched the year quickly slip by. Finally in June the word is out – "the ACCOLADE is in." Seniors are the first to receive their personalized copies. The following day books are distributed to the rest of the students, who finally hold in their hands the product of all our labor.

The Silver Scroll is an active student organization. Its aim is to acquaint the student body with what is happening in their school. By the use of editorials, interested students can challenge significant issues, and voice their opinions. The outstanding activities of the school year can be found on the front page. All class activities are covered. Sterling sports are highlighted and pictures of the games can be seen. The major ingredients of a good school newspaper are a selection of opinions and reviews on timely topics and some editorial cartoons. The editorial page's purpose is to present a controversial subject, give the opposing views, draw a conclusion and take a firm stand.

The Silver Scroll has endeavored to provide accurate and interesting coverage of all school activities. It also recognizes the outstanding achievements of individual students. It is an organ published by and for the students, whose ultimate goal is to provide a better understanding of the school program.

Cheerleaders perpetuate Sterling spirit.

The cheerleaders of SHS under the direction of Mrs. Hudson, did a fine job of leading our teams on to victory this year. The girls worked very hard on perfecting their precision routines which included splits, cartwheels, high jumps and flips; and as a result, they conveyed a desire to win to the entire student body. They attended a competition at Bristol on January 27, and came home with a third place title. On February 27, our cheerleaders attended another competition at Deptford, and were honored with a first place trophy.

The girls were invited to a tea at Overbrook High School to maintain the traditional friendliness of the Thanksgiving game. Moreover, many meetings were held with cheerleaders from other high schools where cheers and chants were willingly exchanged.

We feel that the '68 cheerleading squad was one of the best we have ever seen, and they have certainly attained a spirit which is uniquely SHS.

Marching units excel.

The Marching Band of Sterling High School, under the direction of Mr. James Maxwell, delighted the football fans this year during the pre-game and half-time shows with their interesting, unique routines. Many painful hours were spent as the band members tried to attain the precision and form which is needed to make these routines outstanding. It was not uncommon to see an individual band member suddenly discover that everyone else was out of step. The highlight of the football season was the half-time show performed at the Sterling-Collingswood game. Mr. Maxwell was credited with the arrangement of this show, in which songs were coordinated along a Sterling Knight – "Pink Panther" theme.

This year's vocal music organizations have been the best Sterling has enjoyed for a while. Mrs. Pennington was quite concerned about seeing that the groups were always actively participating in some way. The annual Christmas and Spring Concerts were held in conjunction with the band. The chorus also held a Christmas concert at Moorestown Mall. Another choral group, the boys' quartet, titled the "Court Jesters," entertained throughout the year.

Sterling's South Jersey Chorus members, Sharon Bierce, Barbara Schweisguth, Beth Humes, Karen Kuehner, Robert Mayes, Jim Solly and Doug Hartman were seen trying to perfect some of the most difficult songs every day after school. Their efforts were rewarded at the concert held at Sterling on January 27. Many of the students participated in the South Jersey opera festival's version of "Carmen."

Sterling could also boast about two members to the All State Chorus, Sharon Bierce and Robert Mayes. They sang at the Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City, and also at Newark.

Gathered around the piano are the four Senior members of the Boys' Quartet: Gabe Coll, Dave Llewellyn, Bill Lees and Doug Hartman.

MR. JAMES MAXWELL
Instrumental Music Director

Sterling's Instrumental Music Department, under the capable direction of Mr. James Maxwell, this year provided the student body with some of the finest musical entertainment ever performed at Sterling High School.

As usual, the annual Christmas Concert, held in conjunction with the Vocal Music Department, presented traditional as well as contemporary Christmas selections. Also, a Christmas assembly was held for the student body, where Sterling's version of Santa Claus (Mr. Taylor?) bounded down the aisle while the band played "Jingle Bells."

A musical show, called "Al Legretto," was presented late in the spring, by both the Instrumental Music Department and the Vocal Music Department.

Sterling was very proud of a number of this year's band members, who participated in the New Jersey All-State Band. They were: Dave Llewellyn, French Horn; Debbie Regensburg, French Horn; Dennis Foley, Tuba; Don McIntire, Trombone. Members of the South Jersey Orchestra were: Jan Mattson, Cello; Patt Lubianetsky, Cello; Joy Koster, Viola; Sally Schwartz, Violin; Kim Penick, Bass; Dennis Gormley, Bass; Chris Hartman, Violin; Debbie Regensburg, French Horn; Dave Llewellyn, French Horn; Carol North, Bassoon. And finally, members of the South Jersey Band were: Dave Llewellyn, French Horn; Debbie Regensburg, French Horn; Steve O'Kane, Clarinet; Carol North, Bassoon; Dennis Foley, Tuba; Don McIntire, Trombone; Gary Regensburg, Trumpet; Doug Hartman, Trumpet.

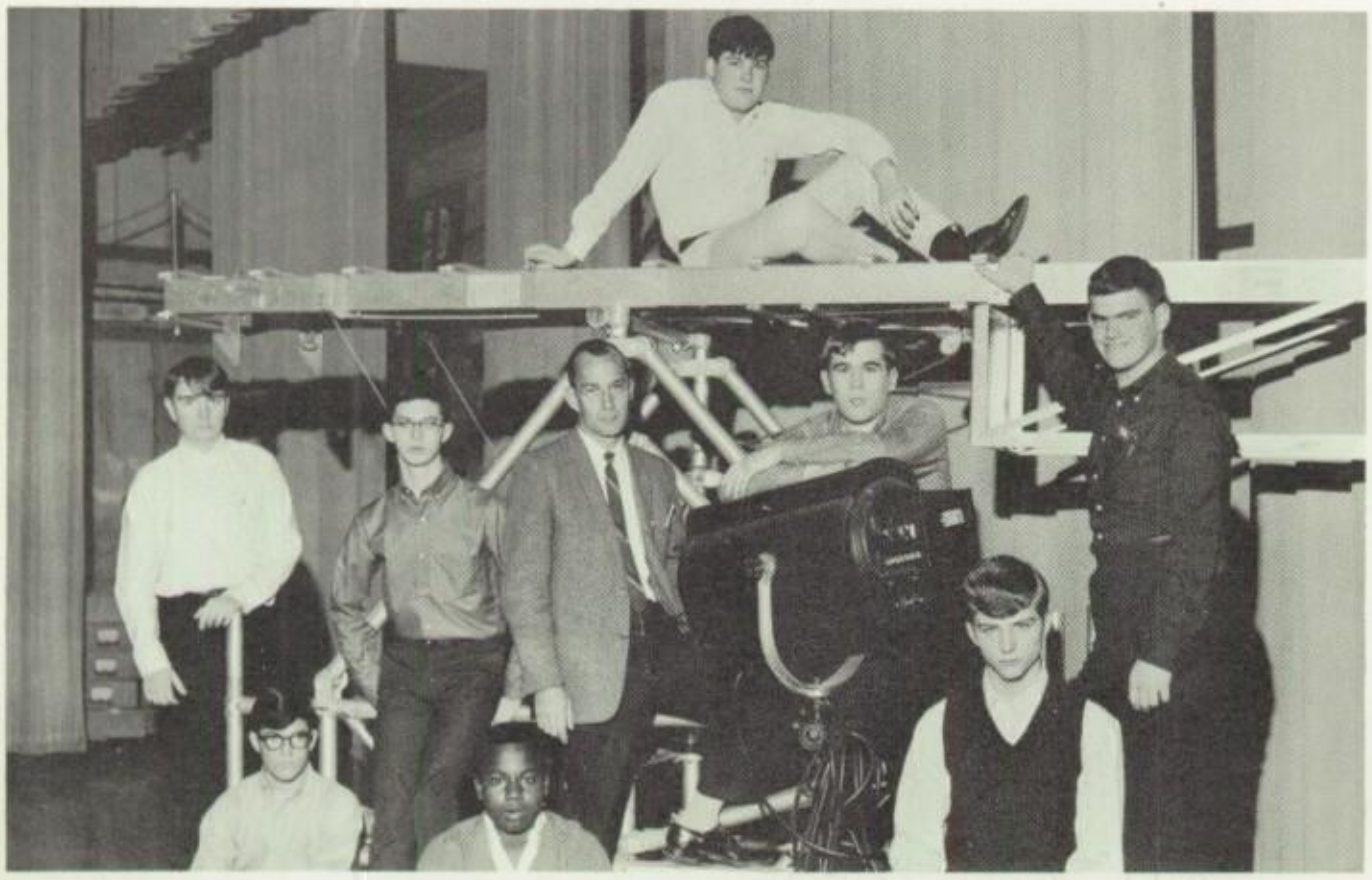
An important service organization at Sterling is undoubtedly the AVA. Mr. Farra, their advisor, was fully aware of the responsibility which was placed on these young men, and he guaranteed the teachers that the AVA boys would provide the audio visual aids used for educational purposes in the classroom, and the operation of this equipment. In addition to their work during school time, the AVA members could be seen operating record players at dances, recording the annual concerts, and very often taking pictures of sports events.

AVA – Richard Fowler, Dennis Gormley, Robert Markowski, William Haines, Donald Loomis, James Solly, Joseph Pratico, Patrick McDonald.

Service clubs perform vital functions.



All important behind-the-scene activities for assemblies, concerts, the Senior play and non-school programs in the auditorium were performed by the STAGE CREW. The hard working boys, directed by Mr. Lynch, also made minor repairs on light and sound equipment and helped to build flats and other scenery for the play.

One of the most invaluable organizations is the LIBRARY COUNCIL. Under the guidance of Mrs. Hanna, these girls spent all of their free time helping those students who wished to expand their education by using the library. The Council members could be seen aiding students in their search for books, filing library cards, covering books and putting stickers on the inside of the books. Along with their help in the library, the Council also helped students in another way. In April, the Library Council held its annual Book Fair, where students and teachers were able to purchase paperback books of classics, tragedies, adventures, and contemporary novels.

The Sterling Chapter of the National Honor Society is one of the most selective organizations in our school. Outstanding students are chosen from among those pupils who have a cumulative average of B or better, by the advisor Miss Pontarelli, and a panel of teachers. This organization cannot be considered a club because the Society only meets once a month. An annual installation assembly is held in the spring of the school year when the new incoming students, the majority of them being juniors, are welcomed into the organization.

The NHS is well known for its projects which are directed towards aiding the needy. Last year's Society held a book drive, in which paperback books were collected and sent to our soldiers in Vietnam. This year, the NHS conducted an even more worthwhile project. In conjunction with the Student Council, a clothing drive was held, resulting in hundreds of bags of clothes being sent to the destitute in the Appalachia area.

Also, the NHS sponsored the annual Senior Servant Sale, in which desirable Seniors were sold to underclassmen for a profit. They also sponsored the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, where the girls were finally able to ask their "ideal date" to a dance without waiting for him to make the first move.

Al Pratico, Joyce Salvatore, Sue Geis, Diane Juchno, Laurie Tait and Mary Ann DeLuca are only a few of the Seniors who endured great suffering in the annual Senior Servant Sale.

Students planning a career in nursing were acquainted with the various duties and fields of nursing in the FUTURE NURSES CLUB OF AMERICA. The girls saw movies demonstrating new methods of first aid and providing. accurate descriptions of various health careers. Our future nurses, under the guidance of Mrs. Phillips, then broadened their knowledge of nursing by visiting hospitals to see the duties of a nurse actually being carried out.

The SPANISH AND FRENCH CLUBS, under the direction of Miss Koch and Mrs. Kennedy respectively, centered their activities around the discussion of current events in each country. They were also enlightened about the landscapes and peoples of those countries by the use of slides. During the Christmas Holidays, the two clubs combined to compare and contrast the traditions of Spain and France.

Traditions of Spain and France are compared and contrasted by club members John Olivo, Arthur Devlin, Sue McAlister and Jeanne Sungenis.

The DART CLUB was turned into a competitive activity full of learning and fun under the supervision of Mr. Townsend. Each boy was a member of a team which participated in contests and tournaments. The air was tense and the room always filled with excitement as the boys tried to acquire and improve their skill as dart shooters. Though no one broke 50, they all agreed the challenge of good dart shooting was always there.

The members of the BRIDGE AND PINOCHLE CLUBS were mainly concerned with learning the strategy and fundamentals of the games. Under the direction of Mr. DeSoi and Mr. Fitzgerald respectively, beginners were able to learn the basics of the game while more advanced players were challenged by partners of their own caliber.

Students in the CREATIVE WRITING CLUB have shown their literary talent through various poems which they had written themselves. The entire club, supervised by Miss MacDonald, participated in discussions concerning these poems and other literary works. The members were also taught several types of writing styles, along with pointers for better creative writing.

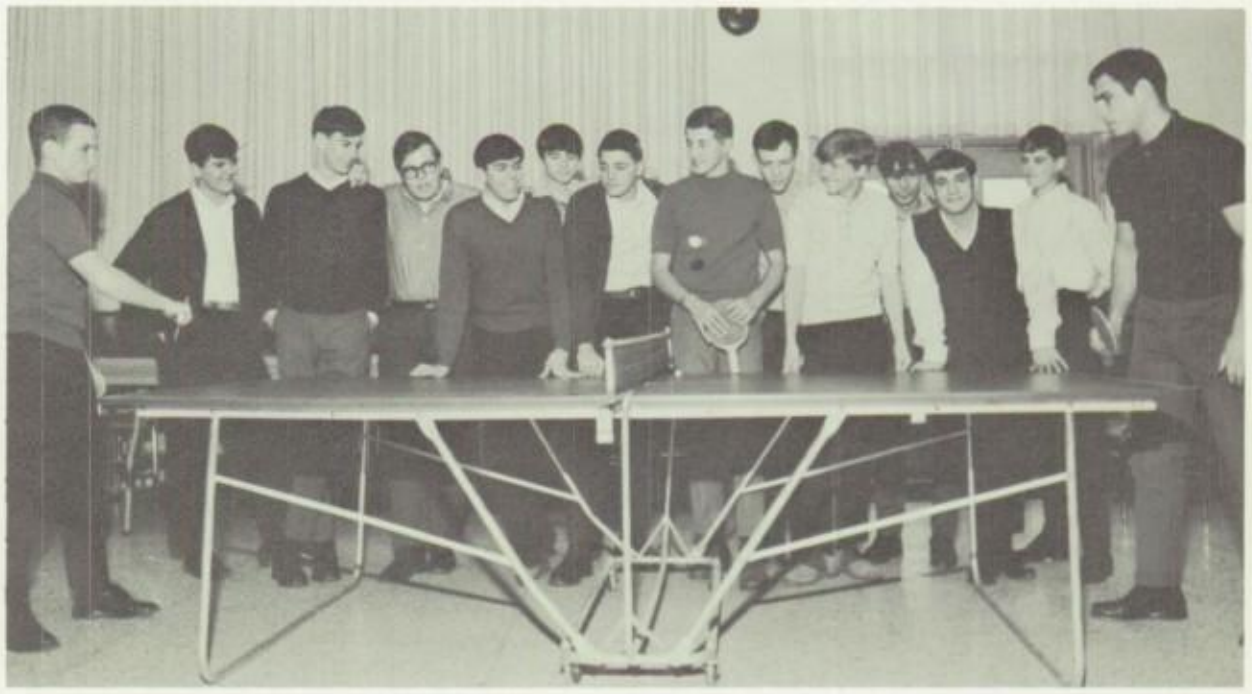
Different styles of writing are discussed by club members Vince Wilkerson, Diane Jankovich, Anne Kennedy and Roberta McQuaid.

Mrs. Zivkovich and the PARTY GIVERS exchanged recipes for delicious party treats and ideas for attractive decorations. They enjoyed talking about helpful hints for parties for every season and holiday of the year.

Mrs. Zivkovich shows Debbie Englerth, Brenda Smith, Gayle Miraglia and Lucy Fortino different ways of making party favors.

If anyone were to walk into the PING PONG CLUB while two members were in the middle of a match, he probably would not even get a nod of acknowledgement from them. Mr. Hulleberg, the advisor, incorporated a competitive spirit in the club, and all members worked hard on improving their game skills. Although there were no tournaments, the students worked just as hard to get as many wins for themselves as they could.

Club members watch as John Booth and Rich McGee concentrate on their game of ping pong.



Current events, such as the war in Vietnam and different economical problems, were only a few of the topics which were discussed in the WORLD AFFAIRS CLUB. Under the guidance of Miss Werkheiser, the students were given as many concepts of both sides of the issues as was possible.

The situation of the United States in the war with Vietnam is a topic which is of great interest to John Holmes, Susan Cusato, and Scott Dempster.

Creativity was the important concept in the HANDICRAFTS AND KNITTING CLUB, supervised by Miss Martin. The students found enjoyment in using their creative talents on useful projects. It gave them the satisfaction of using their own hands for the production of attractive wares fashioned in wood and other materials.

Knitting projects are compared by club members Teresa Campeggio, Kathy Dougherty, Jo-Ann Goff and MaryJo Costanzo.

One could venture into the CHECKERS AND CHESS CLUBS and find the players in silent concentration in an effort to outwit their opponents. The opportunities to engage in competitive matches offered the club members, with the help of Mr. Kaplan and Mrs. Jones respectively, an atmosphere in which the students could relax, and so at the same time, enjoy their games while they were also improving their skills.

Members of the FUTURE TEACHERS CLUB OF AMERICA, under the careful guidance of Mrs. Strickler, were able to develop an interest in the field of teaching. The boys and girls learned about the qualifications and training of a teacher, plus modern methods of teaching. The students took trips to the Trenton State Teacher's College and to local elementary schools for the purpose of seeing how elementary classes are taught.

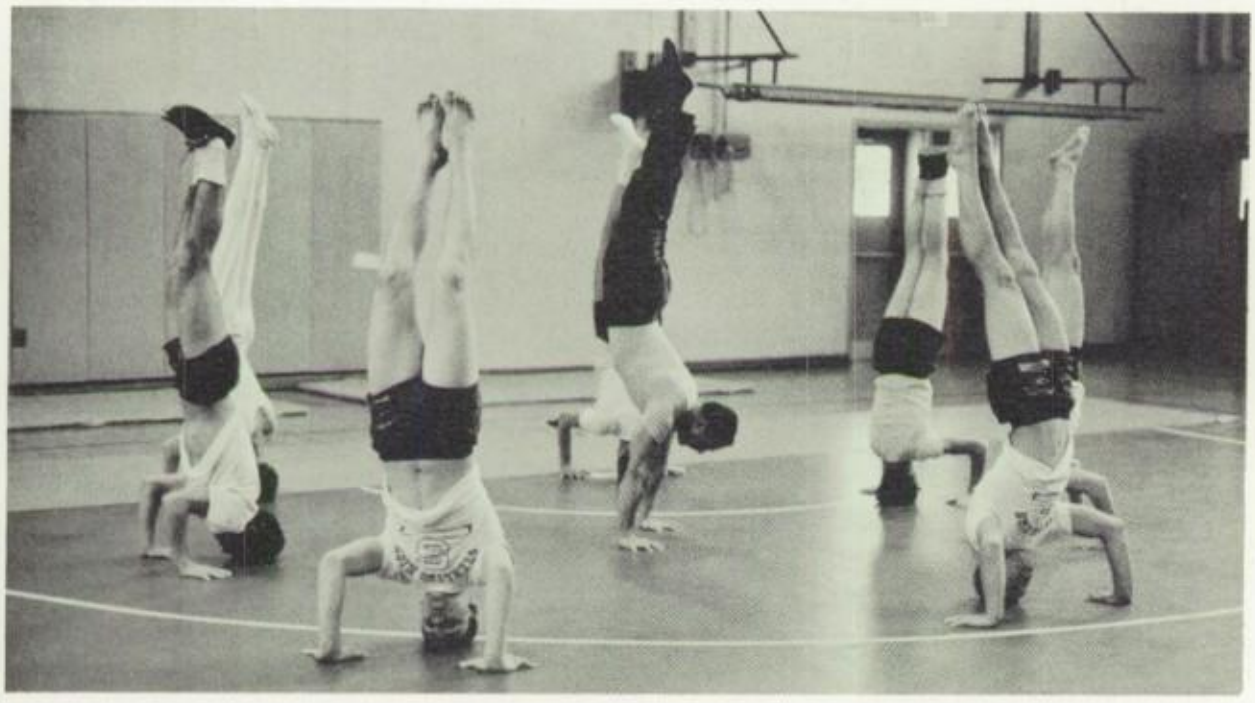
Nina Floyd (Secretary), Pete Richter (Treasurer), Pat Spiegle (Vice President) and Joyce Whitfield (President) discuss plans for the Future Teachers Club.

An airplane trip to Lock Haven, Pa., where they visited the Piper Aircraft factory was one of the highlighting events of the AVIATION CLUB this year. The members also studied weather and geographical maps, structures of individual airplanes, and, moreover, they were greatly impressed by a talk presented by a local meteorologist.

The finer points of a paper airplane are discussed by Larry Cannen, Burt Zastera, George DiFlavis, Steve Marshall and Len Hull.

This year's CHEERLEADING CLUB not only gave the regular squad members extra time for practice, but it also gave all those girls interested in cheerleading an opportunity to learn the stunts and cheers which were required of them if they desired to try out for the cheerleading squad in the spring. Mrs. Hudson, the advisor, also felt that the club was a stimulus to the girls, incorporating in them more school spirit.

Eileen Weiner, Donna Wynne, Dorothy McBride and Sandy Mackouse lead the Cheerleading Club in "Clap Your Hands."



After watching a demonstration by Mr. Bella of his skills in balance and tumbling, the students in the TUMBLING CLUB were given an opportunity to show their prowess and to improve their agility through weekly practice. Along with the fundamentals of tumbling, the students were also taught some basic concepts of gymnastics.

"Heads down?!"

Under the direction of Mrs. Totten and the Varsity MAJORETTE squad, students were given a chance to learn and practice the drills they would need if they desired to try out for the regular squad. Begining with fundamental twirling skills and marching steps, the girls were able to advance to more intricate and difficult routines.

Earlene Wright watches Lois Williams lead Debbie Buckholdt, Chris Widmann and Diane Skourtis in the drills they need to know to try out for the Majorette squad.

Mrs. McGeoy's GIRLS GYM CLUB gave many girls the opportunity to learn those gymnastic skills which were too involved or too difficult to be taught during the regular gym period. By working together, the girls were able to overcome their weaknesses in any one area; and they also helped each other to develop the areas in which they were lacking.

Is Mrs. McGeoy really showing the girls how to make a pyramid, or is she ready to say, "Watch it! You're going to fall."?

Members of the PUBLIC SPEAKING CLUB were given an opportunity to learn how to speak properly in front of an audience and to prepare better speeches. With the help of Mrs. Cyrelson, the students were shown how to overcome self-consciousness when giving a speech and how to use their voices effectively for communication.

Sterling's botantists could be found in the BIOLOGY CLUB, caring for the various types of vegetation growing in the confines of the greenhouse, and attending to the many responsibilities which accompany the running of a successful "plantation." The students also conducted experiments in the field of Biology, under the direction of Mr. Garavento.

Students were given a chance to create unique, handcrafted objects of metal in the METAL SHOP CLUB. Mr. Daniel instructed the students in the proper procedures to use in the shop. He also showed them the various items which could be made right in Sterling's own metal shop.

The SEWING CLUB under the supervision of Mrs. Heal, gave its twenty-seven members the opportunity to do creative sewing and to acquaint themselves with the techniques and terms used in sewing. The girls made many useful articles for the home and for many local organizations.

Do you really think they are looking at a pattern book, or is it a new piece of gossip which is holding their attention?

Gladys D'Amico takes a pause before she continues taking dictation.

Stenography students, guided by Miss Holter, were able to practice and polish the skills they had learned in class in the STENOGRAPHY CLUB. Dictaphones and other equipment were available for their use, and with this extra practice, the girls are now better equipped for their future careers as secretaries.

Jim Lomas and Tim Downs watch as Chester Damanski and Tom Fargnoli keep score for the Bowling Club.

By practicing together each week, the members of the BOWLING CLUB were able to learn new skills and to become aware of their own faults. Mr. Wirtz, the advisor, demonstrated methods of overcoming these mistakes, and taught the students helpful hints aimed at improving their individual games.

In order to help members of the HAIRSTYLING CLUB better understand the career of a hairstylist, professional hairdressers were guests of the club. These visitors, along with Miss Sigafoos, endeavored to show the girls various types of coiffures, ranging from "mod to model."

Beverly McDaniels, Pat O'Kane and Mary Jane McQuaid can often be seen with curlers in their hair as other club members experiment with new hairstyles.

The DRAFTING CLUB, under the direction of Mr. Hunt, encouraged students interested in pursuing an engineering career to practice their weak areas in drafting and to do advanced work to perfect the skills needed for college.

After a long day at school, and after finishing your wood project, Marianne Wilson and Laura Carabelli agree that only one detergent will get your hands clean and keep them soft.

The WOODSHOP CLUB, guided by Mr. Rigoulot, provided an opportunity for girls and boys alike to work on new projects in wood, or to complete those they had begun during regular class period. Students were able to choose the projects they wished to make, and to finish them at their own speed.

Dottie Brown, Denise Ryan, Linda Rose and Rosalie Hamilton compare the wooden plaques they have made during club period.

Members of the ART CLUB, under the supervision of Mrs. Morgan, were given the opportunity to familiarize themselves with many areas of art. They were able to increase and develop their talents in painting, ceramics, print making and other facets of art which one cannot sufficiently cover by himself.

Charles Goins works diligently on an art project.

Many delectable aromas invaded the corridors coming from the kitchen where the CHEF'S CLUB, under the capable direction of Mrs. Lippincott, were engrossed in learning how to prepare food and to serve it attractively. During the year, those senior boys interested in the culinary art, made cookies, hot dogs, hoagies and various other dishes.

The girls of the FUTURE HOMEMAKERS CLUB are endeavoring to raise money for a scholarship fund, and a fund for tuberculosis. Under the supervision of Miss Blackburne, this year's club members visited a Future Homemakers Association in another high school; and presented a Mother and Daughter Banquet, where they displayed their newly acquired skills to their mothers.

The TRACK CLUB, under the direction of Mr. Wiltsee, gave its members an opportunity to critically review different films of track events from which the boys could analyze their own performances. The high point of the year was a trip taken to the Philadelphia Track Classic by some of its members. Those boys who desired to be on the track team had time to develop the fundamentals and skills which they needed.

The DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUBS OF AMERICA is not only a club at Sterling High, but it is also a national youth organization which is installed as a regular course in many high schools. The DECA is mainly concerned with developing respect for the education of marketing and producing in those students who are interested in continuing their education in these fields. Mr. Sarkas, the advisor, wishes to promote a group of United States citizens who will understand and appreciate the free, competitive system of enterprise in our country.

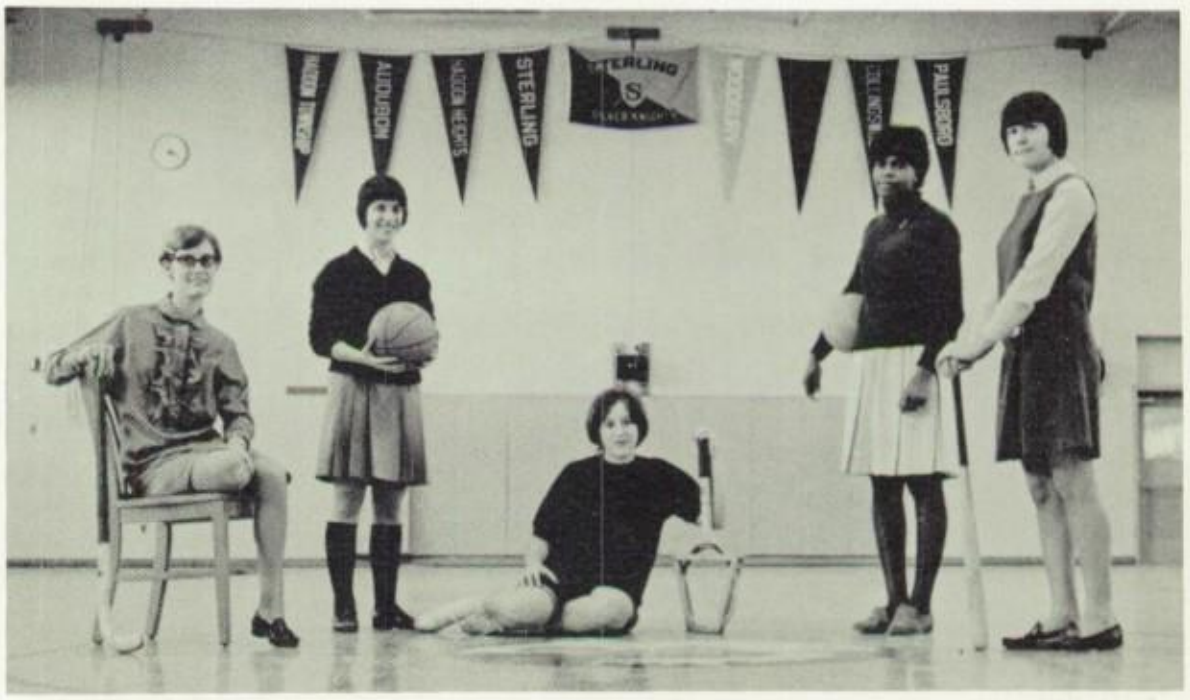
A new club this year, SPORTS FOR GIRLS gave our female athletes an opportunity to learn and practice the seasonal sports such as hockey, basketball, gymnastics and softball. They found the help of their advisor, Miss Coles, most useful in obtaining perfection in these sports.



Kathy Otero, Pat Conrad, Donna Davis, Millie High and Sue McCosker display the different sports that these girls participate in throughout the year.

Methods of operating analog and digital computers were taught to the members of the COMPUTER CLUB by their advisor, Mr. Taylor. The practice of different skills, such as card punching, will one day enable them to operate Univac-60, Sterling's own computer.

"Tennis anyone!?" was the familiar cry heard from the boys' TENNIS CLUB, whether they were on the tennis courts or inside discussing fine points of the game. Under the direction of Mr. Croud, beginning instruction and competitive action was available to all interested boys.

Front: Bob Piontek, Lou Mattio. Back: Tom Martin, Larry Mackouse, Ron McGee, Bill Haines, Bob Francis, Mike Franchuk, Bobby Peckham, Tim Miller, Bruce Smith, Fred Lewis.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Economically this year was distinguished by a gold crisis on the international scene and a widely fluctuating market at home. The British pound was devalued, while inflation continued here despite a raise in interest rates by the Federal Reserve Board. Undaunted by the growing economic instability, Sterling's local businessmen continued to provide reputable merchandise and service to their customers. Their support of the ACCOLADE is especially appreciated during this time.

Taking a well deserved rest — 1968 ACCOLADE Editors.

The book is completed and as the year draws to a close we would like to share with you the many joys and mishaps we have experienced in creating the 1968 ACCOLADE. There were the days when the yearbook seemed like little more than ten thousand manila envelopes, blank copy sheets, and rapidly approaching deadlines which we always managed to somehow just miss. Together we survived missing photos, misplaced subscription records, and lost copy.

Despite all of the chaos and confusion, the book was finally sent to the publisher, but not without the special efforts of several faculty members. No acknowledgement could fully cover all of the patience, time, and organization that our advisor, Miss Wrigley, has put into this ACCOLADE. To her we offer our warm and sincerest 'thank you.' The cooperation of Mrs. Harris and Miss Werkheiser for the grammatical accuracy and authenticity of the theme write-ups is also appreciated. Mr. Hunt's and Mr. Sundheimer's photographic and developing efforts are gratefully acknowledged. And Mr. Farra's daily assistance was certainly warmly received. We would also like to thank the Student Council for their generous donation which made possible Sterling's first color yearbook.

The 1968 ACCOLADE staff has sought to build a book which would in a special way reflect Sterling High School as an integral part of the dynamic world around us. As the halls grow dim and the classrooms quiet, we hope this book will bring back the memories of this total school year.

impact '68

The school year 1967-68 appears at first glance to be a rather discouraging chronicle of events. It remains as a year in which the spirit of violence intensified and the world's major problems seemed further than ever from solution. Penetrating the gloomy shadow of the year, however, were several flickers of hope and accomplishment.

A nation mourned the passing of one of its most notable Civil Rights leaders, Mr. Martin Luther King, on April 4. The victim of an assassin's bullet, Dr. King's death was marked by sincere grief internationally and foreboding riots throughout the nation's cities at home. In contrast, a substantial bid for peace was offered by the President, in hopes of finally resolving the war in Vietnam. A wide-open political race on the home front also promises to hopefully alleviate many of the ills now plaguing our discontented society.

A year most unique in all aspects, 1968, will have a far reaching impact on our future. In recognition of this fact, the ACCOLADE has attempted to capture the highlights of the year in this book, where they have been preserved alongside our more personal school memories. In so doing, we hope that we have presented you with a book that reflects your total school year.
